03 Competitive Landscape

Where it sits: Two things distinguish Infosys for an infrastructure portfolio. First, physical AI is explicitly one of the six areas in its published AI strategy — no other firm in this peer set names it as a target market rather than a talking point. Second, Topaz Fabric is architected so clients can use different foundation models while keeping sensitive data inside their own environments, which Parekh calls a major differentiator and...

04 GIP & BlackRock Connections

GIP became a wholly-owned BlackRock subsidiary in October 2024 and now operates as BlackRock's dedicated infrastructure-investment arm. Stakes below are standard institutional/index-fund positions unless otherwise noted.

Entity	Possible connection
Global Infrastructure Partners	No publicly disclosed GIP relationship. The physical AI strand of the strategy is the part worth testing directly against asset-level problems; the mainstream services business competes on the same ground as TCS, Wipro, HCLTech and Cognizant. Note the Anthropic partnership if model choice comes up.
BlackRock	No publicly disclosed operating relationship.

05 Sentiment

Customer: Deal data points up — $14.9B of large wins, 28% above the prior year, with strength in financial services, communications and manufacturing. Parekh's framing is that clients increasingly treat Infosys as a strategic AI partner rather than a delivery vendor, and the AI revenue ramp from 5.5% to 8.2% supports that more than most...

What supports the story

- AI revenue rose from 5.5% to 8.2% of total in roughly two quarters — the fastest disclosed ramp in its peer group
- Physical AI named explicitly as one of six strategy areas, which no direct competitor in this set does
- Topaz Fabric's model-agnostic architecture keeps client data in the client's own environment

What to pressure-test

- FY2027 guidance of 1.5–3.5% constant currency is among the weakest in this peer set
- Headcount fell 8,440 in Q4 FY2026 and attrition rose to 12.6%
- A CEO transition is under way, with Parekh describing a handoff in which the successor focuses on execution

Employee: The FY2026 picture is of a workforce contracting at the top of the pyramid while entry-level intake continues: more than 20,000 college graduates hired across the year, but an 8,440 net reduction in Q4 alone and attrition ticking up to 12.6%.
